OLEMENCEAU PROHIBITS LABOR DEMONSTRATION.

Prefect Lepine Treats Agitators to Demonstration of Iron Hand Methods -Troops Occupy Streets-All Crowde Dispersed-Labor Exchange Closed.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SWN.

Paris, Jan. 20 .- To-day was to have been a day of great things in the way of a demonatration by organized labor to show how it could intimidate the people of France into obeying the dictates of the labor leaders without reference to the law of the land. It developed into a day of a great fizzle.

Preparations had been made for a demonstration equalling the one intended last May The Government, or more properly speaking Prefect of Police Lepine, made similar arrangements for suppressing any demonstration, with the result that there was no more disturbance of the public peace than there was in May, but there was a remarkable demonstration of the Government's Months ago the Laborites announced the demonstration for to-day. The plan included the assemblage in the Place de la République of enormous numbers of working people and a parade on the grand boulevards, with incidental demonstrations of the kind popular among Paris unionists. involving the sacking of stores of employers whose conduct does not suit the labor syndicates. The declared object of the demonstration was to secure a strict observance of the law of hebdomadary re-

The unionist workers demand that every shop be closed on Sunday immediately. although the law itself permits a month's delay for the suitable regulation of the affairs of the merchants and their patrons. Sporadic demonstrations by certain work ers have been made from time to time, but thousands of representatives of various trades were to have united to-day in masses to show the power of the labor syndicates. with the little daughters of the Fougeres strikers leading the procession to discourage the police from interfering unless by the odious act of using force against the chil-

Similar demonstrations were to occur simultaneously in other cities. Paris was on the qui vive to know what the day had in store and how the Socialists, who head the workers' project, would fare.

The Government's attitude was learned last evening, when Prime Minister Clemenceau refused to permit the demonstration. He put his refusal on the ground that he had no official knowledge of the desire to demonstrate until the unionists had made it impossible to grant permission by looting that very evening two places where the proprietors' acts had not suited them. Furthermore, M. Clemenceau declared that the demonstration as planned would interfere with the weekly repose of people who desired to promenade the boulevards in peace, and whose rights equalled those

Nevertheless, the professional organizers went ahead with their preparations, telling their followers that the Government could not balk them. This produced an exposition of ability and decisiveness of action on the part of the Government which gave the unionists a new idea of popular rights and at the same time preserved Paris from

The Place de la Republique was encumbered on Saturday with barricades, earth mounds and all the impediments of roadway repairs. At night all these were cleared away, and this afternoon infantry filled the square, dragoons lined the sidewalks and the Republican Guards on horseback occupied the corners and barred the con verging streets.

Bicycle police brought information from other centres of the city to the tem-porary headquarters of the police and mili tary, all under M. Lepine, established near the Place de la Republique. The Labor Exchange, where the labor councils meet was ordered closed at noon after the morn ing meeting. Committees and delegations from the various trades, marching under syndical banners, when approaching the Labor Exchange or the Place de la Republique were turned back and told to disperse. The police guarding the subway stations in the vicinity escorted passengers outside the zone of the expected disturbance, permitting nobody to linger and arresting

Some professional agitators told the assembling delegations that it was useless to continue the attempt. Others urged their followers to retire to other sections of the city and reassemble later at various points on the grand boulevards and there effect a demonstration, but in every section of the city where assemblages were likely or possible policemen were grouped in tens or fifties, with reserves near, and bloycle policemen plying everywhere.

Paris from the laborite point of view bore the aspect of Ireland in the ancient story where every man was ready to rise and overthrow the Government, but could not because the police would not let him. The boulevards were thronged with people anxious to see what would happen, but the only disorders, and these of minor importance, occurred in the neighborhood of the original place of assemblage. There some cafés were obliged to close for self-protection. About 150 arrests were made alto-

The little man, Lepine, who usually manages to get the centre of the stage one way or another, because he circulates everywhere, found himself in the centre of a crowd of manifestants who refused to obey his requests to disperse and raised a furore against him by demanding freedom to make the demonstration. He was rescued by a squad of police. He escaped more fortunately than he did some months ago in a demonstration in the Place de la Concorde, where, while a mob was besieging him, he was arrested by one of his own police for causing a crowd to become disorderly. An inspector corrected that error before M. Lepine declared his fy-dev it was others who were arrested and taken to a temporary court established near by. Nothing was left undone to preserve absolute command of the situation by one hand, the hand of M. Clemenceau operating through the head and hand of M. Lepine. The control was as absolute as a monarch's The evening papers couple the incident with the Church crisis, one pro-Church paper saying that these Socialists who wanted to take possession of the streets are the very people who wished the Government to stop Catholic processions. They now feel the hand of an arbitrary Government themselves. The Conservative newspapers say the Government could do nothing less because the French yet fail to understand liberty On every hand it is said that if the workmen demonstrated as in England or America

POLICE HEAD OFF PARIS RIOT. it would not be necessary to forbid them, but whereas thousands lately paraded in London peaceably to influence public opinion in a proper way, here in Paris it only needs a permit for 200 to demonstrate when they sack stores, destroy property and prevent peaceable public enjoyment

> On Saturday, as a prelude to to-day's intended demonstration, unionists smashed a baker's office and a printers' employment agency. On the same day 600 strikers at Fougeres attacked a woman and spat upon her because she wished to work. Referring to these incidents the Liberté says: "No, we have not in France the manners of a free people, but all this is part of our education in liberty." The workmen's leaders threaten to placard the country with an appeal against M. Clemenceau's refusal to allow them to freely

I THE NEW SHIPPING BILL.

Chairman Grosvenor Says It's an Ocean Mall and Not a Subsidy Measure. WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 .- In the report which Chairman Grosvenor of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fish eries has filed on the Littauer shipping bill he declares that the measure is not general ship subsidy bill. It does not give dollar of subsidy or bounty of mail subvention, he asserts, to any company for operating a fast passenger service to

"It is," the report says, "an ocean mail bill, pure and simple, with incidental provision for a naval reserve, approved by the Navy Department and Admiral Dewey Enrollment in this naval reserve is voluntary with each officer and man of the merchant service, while it is optional with each ship to carry or not to carry these naval reserve men, so that all fear of conscrip-tion as suggested by the sailors' unions is emoved."

Continuing, the report points out that the steamships to perform this postal service must be built in the United States on plans approved by the Navy Department with a view to use as auxiliary cruisers or trans-ports, and must be held at the disposal of the Government in time of war. They nust carry crews a certain increasing pro-certion of whom, one-half in five years, are merican citizens, and a certain number of American boys as cadets. After citing the lines which will be established under the bill and the payment to each, the report continues:

"This bill is emphatically not a measure for the benefit of existing lines or already prosperous companies. Every one of the ships required for the North American service in either Atlantic or Pacific will have to be designed and built, for not one American steamship of any kind now runs in that South American commerce. On the transpacific routes there are now afloat perhaps one-half as many American steamers as would be needed to undertake these contracts. Responsible ship owners have stated that unless this bill or an equivalent is passed some, if not all, of the vessels com-posing this skeleton of a Pacific fleet will have to be laid up or abandoned to foreign nations which can and do sustain their merchant marine. "Both the War Department and the Navy epartment in formal statements have colored that the United States would be helpless in a serious war because of a lack of merchant steamships so indispensable as transports, supply ships and auxiliary cruisers. This bill would provide steamers of a high class, designed and built for this especial service. If the bill is not enacted we shall inevitably lose most of the few ships of this kind which we now have."

MINISTERS ON BRIDGE CRUSH. Man Who Is Less of a Gentleman Than He Was Two Years Ago.

In order to stimulate public sentiment against the prevailing conditions at the Manhattan terminal during the rush hour several Brooklyn clergymen talked on the subject to their congregations last evening. Universalist Church, in Flatbush said:

"No other people would tolerate such s thing as this bridge crush. It's a menace to health and morals. It demands immedi ate and earnest cooperation of all good citizens to abate the nuisance.'

"The condition at the Manhattan end of "The condition at the Manhattan end of the bridge is appalling," said the Rev. Thomas A. Hyde in St. Matthias's Protestant Episcopal Church, Sheepshead Bay, last night. "No scene on a cattleship can compare with it."

"That Disgraceful Crush at the Bridge" was the subject of an address delivered as a prelude to the regular sermon at the Washington Avenue Baptist Church, Brooklyn, by the pastor, the Rev! Robert MacDonaid, last night. He referred to some of his friends who were compelled to move from Brooklyn to New Jersey or on the New York Central line because they could not stand the wear and tear of going to work and returning home during the rush hours every working day of the week. This was causing a great injury to the city. He also said that manhood and womanhood was becoming demoralized owing to the conditions ing demoralized owing to the conditions that prevail. One of his friends had told him, he said, that he was less of a gentleman now than he was two years ago. The he was willing to give his seat to a woman but now he was so tired out after his day' toil and hard fight in the crush that who he managed to get a seat he held it.

WOULDN'T MARRY 'EM. The Rev. Henry Marsh Warren Declined to Officiate at 1 A. M.

At midnight Saturday three women and man came in a cab to the Tenderloin police station. The man and one of the women went in and told the sergeant at the desk that they wanted to be married. They were, they said, Marjorie M. Gillespie and Marshall Ward, curb broker. The other two, one of whom carried a laundry bag were there as witnesses, the police were informed.

The sergeant announced that marrying was out of his line. Some reporters thought they could help, though. Miss Gillespie told them that she used to be the wife Bruce G. McClellan, described as a Pitts-burg steel man, but had obtained a di-vorce. She and Ward met on New Year's night at Martin's, where Mrs. Halsey Cor-

The couple, with two reporters, drove up to the Rev. Henry Marsh Warren's house at 48 West Ninety-fourth street. It was 1 o'clock in the morning when they arrived and Mr. Warren would not officiate

The extensive storm which covered the central States, causing rain or snow in all districts east of the Mississippi River, moved northeastward yesterday, followed by unusually high and unseasonab temperatures in the Atlantic States and high south to southwest winds.

An area of high pressure was following the storm out of the Northwest and causing a general drop in temperature of 10 to 20 degrees west of the Mis sissippi River and north of Colorado. The fog along the coast disappeared yesterday

In this city the day was cloudy in the morning learing and colder in the afternoon; wind, brisk to high south to southwest; average humidity, 7 barometer, corrected to read to sea level at 8 A. M., 29.53; 3 P. M., 29.62, The temperature yesterday as recorded by the

WASHINGTON FORECAST FOR TO DAT AND TO MORRO For eastern NewYork, eastern Pennsylvania. New Jersey and Delaware, fair and colder to day: cold wave with high northwest winds; fair to-m For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia, fair and colder to-day; cold wave to morrow and fair: diminishing northwest winds. For New England, fair and colder to day, cold wave, with high winds; fair to-morrow. For western New York, snowstorms and colder to-day; partly cloudy to-morrow; high west winds

SAYS BAILBY GOT A MILLION.

Our London office is at your disposal as a client of this company.

The Trust Company $118,000 and Oil Fee of $100,000 of America

135 Broadway, New York. 36 Wall St., New York. 35 Gresham St., London, E. C. CAPITAL AND SURPLUS $12,769,600.

WOODRUFF MAY TOUR WEST

INSTEAD OF SPENDING HIS THREE MONTHS IN EUROPE.

Gentlemen With Hopes for 1908 Anxious to New York-Bracketing of Taft and Hughes and Fairbanks and Hughes. Chairman Woodruff of the Republican state committee said yesterday that he hadn't yet quite made up his mind to go to Europe on February 1 for a three months play spell but was inclined to think that he would start on that day for a three months tour through the Southern and Western States. Mr. Woodruff added that if he went South and West it would be for ousiness reasons entirely.

Other Republicans thought they scented national politics for 1908 in any such visit just at this time, when the friends of Taft, Fairbanks, Cannon and Shaw are subsoiling for delegates to the Republican national convention one year from next June.

Harry New, Republican national chair man, has been in town at the Breslin talking with New York State Republicans, and Vice-President Fairbanks on recent visits to this city has questioned Republicans and others as to the real situation in the State, who's on top in the organization. who's likely to be on top next year when the national delegates are selected, and

Two diametrically different stories came last night from the bunch of New York State Republican Congressmen who were in town for the week end. One was that President Roosevelt's friends are encouraging the greatest number of Presidential booms possible in the convention next year in the hope of precipitating a deadlock which only the President's renomination could break. The other story was that the President's attention was called the other day to the organization of Roosevelt third term leagues in many of the States and that he was asked about them.

"I don't know anything about this league." the President said to one of his callers, "but I do know that they can league and league until the cows come home and it won't alter my determination of election night,

The New York State Republican Congressmen said it was curious how the important Republicans of Washington were watching Gov. Hughes of New York. "It is like this," said one of the Congressmen last night at the Hotel Manhattan. "Taft's friends, Fairbanks's friends, Shaw's friends, Foraker's friends, Uncle Joe's friends, all say that New York State is of course entitled to the Vice-Presidential nomination, and then they ask: How would Taft and Hughes sound, or Fairbanks and Hughes, or Shaw and Hughes, or Cannon and Hughes, or Foraker and Hughes? and so it goes all day long and half the night. Some of the Washington Republicans who talk this way are watching every move made by Hughes. Most of them think he will be a success, while others are on the lookout

At the Fifth Avenue Hotel it was accepted by Republicans that Winslow M. Mead is to be retired as Deputy State Superintendent of Public Works and that George W. Aldridge is to be retired as a Railroad Commissione when Gov. Hughes's plan to abolish the Railroad Commission and the Commission for Gas and Electricity is adopted by the Legislature. In place of the two commissions of eight members there is to be one Public Service Commission of seven members, and it was stated on credible authority that the new Public Service Commissio will begin its work on September 1. Col. George W. Dunn of the Railroad Commission, it was again announced, is to resign within a week or two.

"What sort of men is Gov. Hughes to appoint to the Public Service Commission? was asked of one of the Governor's friends. "The very best in the State." was the Republicans who said they knew what they were talking about declared that there is to be a new order of things in many other respects; that John A. Merritt, once so powerful in the Niagara Falls district, is to be sent to a back seat for good and all; that Senator Stanislaus P. Franchot is serving his last as well as his first term in the Senate, and that the cry for new blood in the party orgalization is to be heeded. As a matter of fact there was a feeling all around yesterday that for the next year and more a myriad creakings will be heard in the dilapidated Republican State ma-

PATENT MEDICINES, NEW STYLE Some of the Old Timers Hardly Recogniz-

able Under the New Law. one of these damp evenings and find him all out of your favorite bitters or if when you pull the wrapper off you find the stuff an oily green instead of the remarks. If you slip around to the apothecary's an oily green instead of the remembered vermilion don't blame the druggist. The chances are he and his wholesaler are in chances are he and his wholesaler are in the same fix. It's the new pure drug law. The Federal food and drugs act went into commission on New Year's Day. Its stipulation that manufacturers whose reme-dies contain narcotics or alkaloids must say so on the labels has made no end of trouble in the drug business. The real say so on the laders has made no end of trouble in the drug business. The real lambs are getting along pretty well, but the wolves that used to wear wool in the good old days are having a time of it. Bottles, labels and contents have all been changed

Practically everything in the drug line is now labelled: "Guaranteed Under the Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906." Is also bears the serial number allotted by the Government. Most of the local wholesalers will not accept goods otherwise, and the result has been a notable scarcity of such products as have not yet-conformed to the requirements of the new law. Most of the well known proprietary articles well known proprietary articles got in line early. One of the local druggists has secured guaranty No. 1 for one of his preparations. A wholesaler has sent this letter to his patrons:

For the temporary omission of any or dinary proprietary articles we crave your This is owing to the confusion which has vertaken the business by reason of the enforcement of the pure food and drugs act,

While some proprietors have had their ods ready with new labels others have delayed the matter to such an extent that prompt delivery of all goods ordered is im-

While it is true that the law applies only to interstate commerce, yet the New York Board of Health by its recent action has made the same conditions apply to business in New York city.

TEXAS SENATOR CHARGED WITH TAKING BIG TRUST FEES.

Representative Cocks Says One Deal Brought in $225,000 Cash and $1,000,000 Stock—Railroad Fee of

Austin, Tex., Jan. 20.-Speaker Love yesterday appointed the special committee of the House to investigate whatever charges may be filed against Senator

It consists of Messrs. O'Neil, Patton, Cobbs, Jenkins, Wolfe, McGregor and Robertson of Travis. They will begin work to-morrow. The Senate investigatng committee will also begin its session

Representative W. A. Cocke of San Antonio late last night mailed charges against

Mr. Bailey to the Senate committee. In addition to the charges bearing on Mr. Bailey's alleged transaction with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and H. Clay Pierce Mr. Cocke voices some new suspicions. He charges:

"That J. W. Bailey while a member of the United States Congress became financially interested in a certain mule contract with the United States Government, in violation of the law and in contravention of his Congressional duties, said contract having been procured for one Steger, or Steger & Labatt of Texas, by Bailey.

"That some time after the readmission of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company to the State of Texas and the fraudulent dismissal of the litigation then pending against said company and its officers at Waco, Tex., after the said J. W. Bailey had used his personal, political and official influence to acquit all the parties, he received from the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey or the Waters-Pierce Oil Company of Missouri the additional sum of $100,000 as compensation to Bailey for the exertion of his influence aforesaid, not withstanding Bailey under outh in the month of January, 1901. and many times thereafter, denied that he ever received any money from the Standard Oil Company or the Waters-Pierce Oil

"That during the early part of the year 1903 Bailey was employed by Banker Bane of New York city, the latter being an officer of the Seaboard National Bank, a Standard Oil Company ally, to prepare a charter for the Security Oil Company of Texas, which company Bailey well knew, or by the exercise of ordinary official discretion might have known, was to become a subsidiary company of the Standard Oil Company, and for which service Bailey was paid an unreasonable fee of $5,000; that such fee was intended as compensation to said Bailey for political services then rendered or afterward to be rendered to the Standard Oil Company and allied trust interests.

"That about the same time Bailey supported the Aldrich currency measure against every Democratic Senator; that the author of said bill was the father-inlaw of the son of John D. Rockefeller, president of the Standard Oil Company, and that Bailey's attitude upon his bill was propably influenced by his connection with and obligations to the Standard Oil Company and allied corporations and trust "That Bailey has become a frequenter of 26 Broadway, that notorious rendezvous of Standard subsidiary companies, and has frequently been seen in and about said offices and has attended meetings of officers of said company or companies.

"That during his term of office as United States Senator Bailey had large financial transactions with and for the Kirby Lumber company of Texas and John H. Kirby personally, wherein and whereby on account of his close connection with the to dispose of certain securities belonging to the Kirby Lumber Company or John H. Kirby and for which he received a fee of $225,000 and an alleged interest in the said company of $1,000,000. "That during the year 1905 said J. W Bailey collected at one time a fee of $118,000 through the Red River National Bank of Gainesville, Tex., as a profit on some rail-

"That during the year 1906 Bailey had large financial transactions, including a note for $28,100 with John W. Gates, once of Texas, afterward of Chicago and now of New York, involving, as your informant believes, Mr. Bailey's additional connection with large trust interests, perhaps the wire and steel trust.

"That during his official career in Congres Bailey became financially interested in certain enterprises with John W. Gates. formerly of Port Arthur, Tex., and received financial benefit in consideration of his official support of certain national legislation affecting Port Arthur, Tex.

in the matter of shipping interests. "That during his official career in Cor gress Bailey either accepted a fee or a loan or a gift of funds raised by Federal employees in the Indian Territory in consideration of the passage of the Federal court fee bill through Congress, affecting said employees and officials of the Indian Territory.

BIG CROWD AT YALE JUNIOR PROM

Girl in Brown and Yellow Leads Proce sion Through Cheering Throng.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 20.-The largest crowd of undergraduates that ever assembled to josh junior prom girls covered the Yale fence and lined the walks to-day. Most of the Yale men cut chapel to be on hand when the first bunch of girls should come out of Battle Chapel.

There were more than 1,000 seniors, sophomores and freshmen in line when the first delegation of prom girls appeared. At the chapel door there was a halt as the girls looked down the line and hesitated to true the gauntlet.

run the gauntlet.
Then one girl in brown velvet and yellow roses made a dash down the line. Her escort followed and close behind came eacort followed and close behind came another girl in Yale blue.

In an instant every girl in the chapel wanted to do the trick. Couple after couple filed out and hurried past the lads on the fence. Some, excited to blushes by the compliments and the joshing, waded through mud and water up to their ankles at route where the gauntlet lines forced at points where the gauntlet lines forced them off the walks. Others made flying leaps over these spots, causing no end of fun for their tormentors.

When the last girl had emerged from the door some one shouted "It's all over!" and the crowd scattered to follow the girls. The last to leave the fence were two Chinese students who had watched the per-formance with great amusement.

Despite the threatening weather the girls were attired in white and blue, making the showlest display ever seen on the Yale campus on a raw January day. New Vice-President for Armour Grain Co.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 .- E. M. Higgins is to retire from the vice-presidency of the Armour Grain Company February 1 and will be succeeded by E. A. James. Mr. Higgins is a young man who has accumulated $1,000,000, of which more than $500,000 has been made on the Board of Trade within a year. He is to retire from business and spend a long time abroad with his family. Edward A. James, the new vice-president, has been with the Armour house twentyseven years, starting as a boy.

In the selection of woods, and particularly those that go into office furniture, the layman is seldom expert.

My judgment in regard to woods assures qualitymaterials properly used, and my reputation guarantees fair dealing. CHARLES E. MATTHEWS, Office Furniture, 275 Canal St., 1 Door East B'way. Telephone 1299 Spring.

ICEBOAT BRINGS MISS TERRY

PHILADELPHIA SHUCKED A CRYS-TAL CRUST TWO DAYS OUT.

Before That the Passengers Had Bumped All the Winter Bumps of the Western Ocean-Miss Terry in a State of De-

The American Line steamship Philadelphia got in to her pier yesterday morning from Southampton and Cherbourg after what Capt. A. R. Mills said was the worst combination of adverse weather that he had struck in fourteen years. The boat yesterday did not show a trace of the coating of snow and ice that a three days storm had plastered on it before Friday morning. Two days of calm and thaw took all the weatherbeaten appearance away, but the passengers had an experience that they said they were unlikely to forget. The bad weather broke up high hopes of a run that would have been close to record breaking for the old Philadelphia. The calm seas helped the ship along so from a week ago Saturday morning that with the runs of Sunday and Monday she was seventy miles ahead of her previous best On Tuesday morning a furious wind and sea began to throw the waves high over bow. Then the weather turned cold and the water froze to decks and rigging A heavy snowstorm on Wednesday, with the tremendous seas, cut down the day's run to an insignificant number of miles and the passengers began to get an idea that they would be lucky if they got in at Hardly a soul slept that night, so much did the ship roll. The sea was tremendously rough all the time and every third minute a lurch upset the passengers. On Thursday the storm was still doing business and at 11:30 o'clock that morning a wave came along that was the biggest yet. The steamer gave a great roll and then as big a one to the other side. A woman passenger was shot across the saloon and struck her head against the cabin wall. She was not hurt. The same twist snapped out of Purser Hinsley's desk every drawer and spread the contents in the passageway outside the open door of his cabin.

The nasty weather kept it up without losing force until Thursday at midnight and the ship got a terrible pounding. A deep calm set in after midnight and Friday morning the ocean was as flat as a pancake and a brilliant sun was shining. The passengers got out their kodaks and hurried to get pictures of the snowscape. Good weather all Friday and most of Saturday and a warm temperature cut off all the ice decoration and the general cry was, "If we try to tell 'em home that the boat was covered with ice they'll say it's a sea tale." Just to wind up with, the Philadelphia was caught outside the Hook-a long way outside-by the fog and had to creep up until a pilot came aboard. Miss Ellen Terry, the English actress, who had her company aboard, was the first Standard Company and other large finan- person to welcome the pilot. Rushing up o'clock Saturday night, she said:

"Are you a pilot? "Yes'm." answered the dauntless navigator, who hadn't the slightest idea who the lady was.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you," cried Miss Terry, shaking his hand and then running for her cabin.

The Philadelphia crawled along, the hooter going merrily, and finally came to anchor inside the Hook to wait for the morning. When the dawn came vesterday the passengers found that the Campania was anchored about 200 vards away, and they were glad she hadn't hit her. That ended what Capt. Mills called the fanciest collection of weather that he had struck in fourteen years.

Miss Terry brought with her eighteen members of her company, Alfred Courtenay her manager and L. Sealy, the stage mana. ger. The players have a tour that will open with three weeks in the Empire Theatre in this city, starting January 28, and will end in New Haven on May 4.

Some one showed Miss Terry a newspaper clipping which quoted her as saving with regard to her tour here, "We shall not leave the civilized parts of the States. Our tour will not take us further west than Chicago nor further south than Washing-

"Oh, no, I never said that to any one," id Miss Terry. "That is absolutely

Miss Terry was one of the liveliest passengers on board the Philadelphia. She was everywhere and walked miles when the weather permitted. Coming up from the dining saloon one afternoon after luncheon dining saloon one afternoon after luncheon she was carrying in one hand a green leather bag that she never lost hold of and in the other a cup of coffee. Just near the top of the steps she stumbled and fell forward on her elbows. Rudge Harding, one of the company, ran to help her up, but she did not want aid. Finally she got to the top of the steps, crying dramatically, "Thank God, the coffee is safe." Miss Terry was what she called "charwoman" of the ship's concert on Saturday night.

concert on Saturday night.
Miss Terry's daughter, Miss Edith Craig, who was appointed by Charles Frohman to be supervisor of stage management of the tour, accompanied the players. The company will rehearse for a week and will open with G. Bernard Shaw's play, "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," in which Miss Terry has the only woman's part. After a fortnight of that the company will play "The Good Hope," translated from the Dutch of Heijermann by Christopher St. John, who is otherwise Miss Marshall St. John, a member of the company. This play deals with the abuses in the Dutch navy and with a practice of some Dutch merchants of sending out unseaworthy boats to let them sink and collect the in-

"The strictures on the navy in the play," said Mr. Courienay, "apply only to the Dutch navy. We do not want any one to Dutch navy. We do not want any one to think that the American or British navy is being criticised. The play is two years old and has had a great run in Dutch. In it Miss Terry takes the part of a fisherman's widow, entirely different from anything widow, entirely different from anything that she has attempted before." Together with "The Good Hope," which a a short play, will be produced "Nance Oldfield," one of Miss Terry's familiar plays.

The trip was not undertaken as a farewell. Miss Terry said yesterday that she would be glad to come to America as long as the Americans cared to have her. Among the properties that the company brought over were a dozen or so "penny dreadfuls," to be used in the Shaw play.

Mr. Courtenay said that he had been told by Mr. Frohman's manager here that they couldn't be had in the United States. Miss Terry has with her Miss Suzanne Sheldon Terry has with her siles Strading Shellon and James Carew, both Americans. Miss Forbes-Robertson, a niece of the actor of the same name, also is with the company.

The Sale of Suits & Overcoats for Men Special at $16.00

Formerly $20, $22, $23 and $25

You must know the high character of the garmentsthe expressive tailoring and the distinctive designbefore you can understand how much the liberal price reductions mean.

Suits-Single breasted sack models, conservative and radical, fashioned of worsteds in stripes, plaids and mixtures, together with unfinished worsteds and thibets in blue and black.

Coats-Paddock, form-defining and loose box models, fashioned of kerseys, meltons and rough surface fabrics in black, oxford gray and gray stripes, plaids and

Herald Saks & Company Square

Specialists in Apparel for Men, Women and Children.

Triple Daily Service to California

The Overland Limited to San Francisco leaving Chicago at 8.02 p. m. daily and the Los Angeles Limited to Los Angeles leaving at 10.05 p.m. daily are electric-lighted throughout, and less than three days en route.

The China & Japan Fast Mail leaves Chicago daily at 11.00 p. m. has Standard Pullman Sleepers Chicago to San Francisco, Portland and Los Angeles. free reclining chair cars, and dining cars for all meals, over the Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line.

H. C. Cheyney, General Agent, C. & N.-W, Ry., 461 Broadway, New York.

LINCOLN TRUST COMPANY

MADISON SQUARE, NEW YORK

Sells letters of credit drawn by any responsible banking house; Foreign Exchange dealt in and foreign money on hand.

JEWS MAY RETURN TO RUSSIA ART SALES AND EXHIBITIONS

BROADWAY & LISPENARD ST.

IF PERSECUTION STOPS, SAYS IN-VESTIGATOR HARKAVY.

Agent of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society Finds Much That's Encouraging -Birth Rate of Russian Jews Makes Up for the Loss by Those Coming Here

Alexander Harkavy of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, who has been two months in Europe investigating the treatment of Jewish immigrants aboard ship and ashore, partly with a view of ascertaining their fitness to become American citizens, returned yesterday on the Cunarder Campania with impressions that, he says, are in the main satisfactory and encouraging. He is convinced that the emigration of Jews from Russia to America will keep up so long as the persecution of the Jew continues in Russia. But the great efflux will have but little effect on the Russian Jewish population, the loss by immigration being compensated for by a very large birth rate. "When the persecution ceases," Mr. Harkavy said, "Russian emigration will not only dwindle, but many Russian Jews who are here will return to their native country, where they have left relatives, friends and memories that will draw them back. Left alone to pursue his business in Russia, the Jew gets along as well as any one else. The vast majority of those who are coming to America now are under 35 years of age and are of good physique and above the normal intelligence. Only the rugged and adventuresome seem to be emigrating, whereas several years ago we were getting the middleaged and old.

"I found that the Russian Jew emigrant was not only not assisted but not even encouraged to leave Russia by the Jewish enevolent societies abroad. In all cases I looked into I found that the emigrant had paid his own passage. But the societies do help out in some cases where the emigrant has little besides his passage ticket The emigrant is on his way to the ship when the representatives of the societies first see him. His is a voluntary exile. In some instances, if it is decided after examination at the controlling station in Germany, or just before he goes aboard ship, that he is not a fit person to enter America he may be helped to some other country France, Canada or Argentina, where the mmigration laws are not restrictive "In some cases emigrants who are re-jected at the controlling stations or at the ships are sent back to Russia. In instances where they have secretly left the country for political reasons it is impossible to return them without imperilling their liberty, and sometimes their lives, and they are sent to other countries, notably France. If it were possible for the Jewish societies to bring in Jewish immigrants free there would be a calamitous flood of immigration to this port. But the societie do this if they could.

"I investigated the conditions in the Jewish quarters of most of the large cities of Europe. I found the Whitechapel district, in which there are many Jews, not so black as it has been painted. Since the Jews have settled there it has become peaceful and comparatively moral. There are no more rogues there than in centres of vast population elsewhere.

"Leannot say for publication much about report to the society. I have found, how-ever, that the Jewish immigrant might be better taken care of by certain lines. All the Jewish societies here are opposed to the

BROADWAY & 72d ST.

AMERICAN ART GALTERS

Free View Day and Evening Antique Chinese Porcelains Han and Yuan Pottery Fine Old Imari Blue and White

CABINET OBJECTS OF HISTORICAL AND ARTISTIC INTEREST An Interesting Stone Garden Bridge

Ancient Bronze Fountains Extraordinary Specimens of Ancient Armor

BY THE FAMOUSIMYOCHINS Wood Carvings from Old Palaces and Temples

A Very Important Collection of Japanese Color Prints To be Sold at

Unrestricted Public Sale By Order of The Japanese Connoisseur

B. MATSUKI

Thursday Evening next, Jan. 24th, at 8:15 o'Clock AND AFTERNOONS OF Friday next, Jan. 25th, at 2:30 o'Clock, and Saturday next,

Jan. 26th, at 3 o'Clock An illustrated catalogue will be forwarded on application to the managers The sale will be conducted by congestion of Jewish immigrants in this city and are making an effort to direct the flood to the South and West."

Mr. THOMAS E. KIRBY, of the American Art Association, Managers, 6 East 23d St., Madison Square South

Mr. Harkavy secured the cooperation of Jewish benevolent societies abroad in an effort to prevent the prohibited class of Jews from attempting to come to America, to protect the Jewish immigrant from exploitation by immigration agents on the other side and to assist in the reunion of families that become separated in transit families that become separated in transis from Russia. Mr. Harkavy believes that one of the results of his visit to Europe will be fewer deportations from this port of undesirables and a decrease of expense and suffering to all concerned.